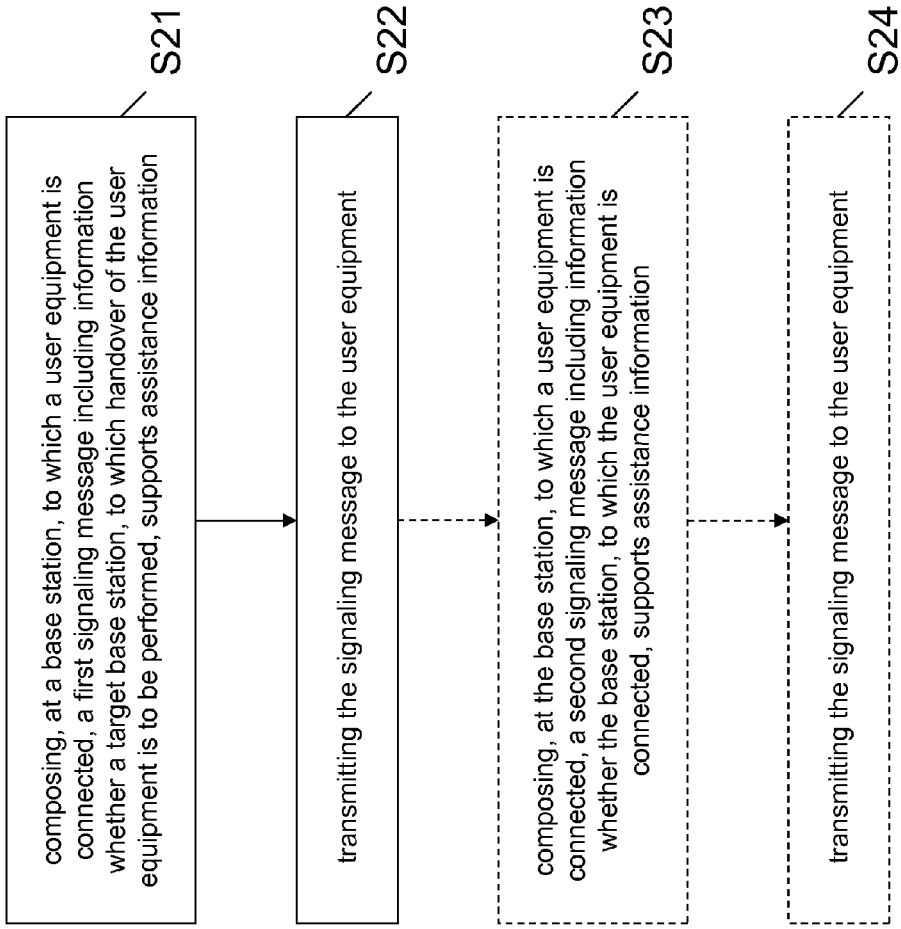
Fig. 2



composing, at a base station, to which a user equipment is connected, a first signaling message including information whether a target base station, to which handover of the user equipment is to be performed, supports assistance information
S21
transmitting the signaling message to the user equipment
S22
composing, at the base station, to which a user equipment is connected, a second signaling message including information whether the base station, to which the user equipment is connected, supports assistance information
S23
transmitting the signaling message to the user equipment
S24